'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Thoughts in a court room.

* * *

If a defendant is supposed to be considered innocent until he is proven guilty, why does the the prosecution have the last say so in the argument?

* * *

Maybe the reason so many children of school age crowded the court room after school hours was that it was raining outside and that was the dryest and warmest place in town.

* * *

It was the warmest place in the county until the bailiff opened a window next to a well known Richmond police inspector. That made things cool enough, but when George borrowed a reporters overcoat to keep his knees warm it made matters worse. And the overcoat was the best and only one we "had."

* * *

Some of the persons who had no business in the court room other than to satisfy their idle curiosity were old enough to know better—and some of them were young enough to have some body else know better for them.

* * *

Who sharpens the pencils for the court reporter and why doesn't she get writers cramps when one of the lawyers starts out on his "we object—blah-blah"—in a continuous drone that lasts for a few minutes.

* * *

But then that occurs so frequently she probably has a dot or dash which indicates the whole thing.

* * *

Do experts ever use words in their testimony which is understood by the layman? But then maybe he isn't supposed to be understood.

* * *

Why do attorneys appear to be ready to spring at each other's throats during the progress of a trial and then spend the recess standing together admiring the beauty of snow capped Mt. Diablo?

* * *

How long before sound recording devices will replace the court reporter?

* * *

Some of the boys who like to hear themselves talk could then buy the records and hear themselves rave on for hours at a time with a great saving of breath.

40 Children Blinded By Clinic Error

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 15—(U.P.)—Forty school children were made blind for life today through a scientific error.

The children had gone to the eye hospital at Kesarion near here to have their sight tested.

Attendants sprayed their eyes with a liquid.

The liquid proved to be a cauterizing fluid. The shrieks of the blinded children brought doctors on the run, but nothing could be done to save the victims' vision.

The tragedy was attributed to the fact that the children had been taken to the wrong room at the hospital, where other patients had been treated for various infections. The attendants were not familiar with the liquids there.

The attitude of the Athens populace became so menacing after the mishap that the minister of health ordered the trial of all occulists working at the hospital clinic.

WELD BREAK HELD CAUSE OF FIRE

Flames shooting high into the air from a leak in a natural gas line brought hundreds of Richmond residents from their homes into the rain storm last night to the vicinity of the Stege station.

The leak, believed to have been started by a break in a weld was touched off by danger signal lanterns placed near the pipeline which was installed a month ago. Flames raced down the line for a distance of more than 15 yards before they were extinguished with the exception of two spots opposite the railroad station.

Flames hissed high into the air, lighting the vicinity with a red glare, and gas bubbled from pools of water formed near the line by the heavy rain.

A crew from the P. G. and E. was immediately dispatched to the scene of the fire.

The line conveys natural gas from Oakland to the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing plant in north Richmond. The main is 20 inches in diameter and carries a pressure of 50 pounds.

The natural gas is brought to Oakland from the Kettleman hills district, where it is in turn, brought to Richmond.

2 HURT WHEN CAR HITS TRAIN

Two men escaped death or serious injuries last night when their car struck a Santa Fe train at the San Pablo avenue crossing.

Fioravanti Piazzi, 1152 Sixty-first street, Oakland, driver of the car and his friend, John Smenza, 1321 Grant avenue San Francisco were cut on the face, head and body in the wreck.

According to police reports Piazza was driving a new coupe toward Oakland on San Pablo avenue when he saw the train approaching. He applied his brakes and the car skidded, hitting the train.

The injured were taken to the Abbott Emergency hospital by F. H. Dieibellis, 5382 Roslyn street, Mira Vista. They were treated by Dr. U. S. Abbott.

The train involved in the crash was a west bound freight train. F. Stoddard, conductor, Z. Bagnall, engineer and J. V. Williams, firemen, all of Richmond composed the train crew.

The car was badly wrecked.

'Missing' Bride To Be Married

OAKLAND, Jan. 15.—UP—Wedding of Miss Mary Schuhart, 18, of Seldon Kan., and Joe Steinbeisser, employed on the Moraga estate near St. Mary's college, Contra Costa county, will take place, fears that the girl had been kidnapped having been dispelled.

Miss Schuhart arrived here Saturday and after reserving a room at the Y. M. C. A., she disappeared. She was discovered today in an apartment here awaiting her marriage.

Rivalry Declared Cause Of Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—UP—Charges that rivalry for the hand of Miss R. De Soto caused the arrest of Harry Jordan by Federal Prohibition Agent Dale Woods were made by Jordan before a United States commissioner. Miss De Soto was present and made a statement she did not intend to marry either Jordan or Woods. Suspension of Woods was announced.

INTEND TO WED

Notice of intention to wed was filed in Oakland yesterday by Joseph S. Mattos, 33, of San Leandro and Amelia M. Alameda, 33 of San Pablo.

CANELO FATE TO BE PLACED IN HANDS OF JURY TODAY

Larry Canelo, Richmond musician accused of a serious charge by a 13 year old Richmond school girl will know his fate today unless a jury in the court of Judge A. B. McKenzie is unable to reach a verdict.

It is expected that the case will go to the hands of the four women and eight men on the jury early this afternoon. Arguments of the attorneys were started after the noon recess yesterday.

James F. Hoey, assistant district attorney of this county, prosecuting the case opened for the prosecution with a review of the testimony which had been presented during the trial.

Carlson Argues

T. M. Carlson who in company with Wilbur Pierce is conducting the defense presented his arguments to the jury after the conclusion of Hoey's address. Pierce will address the jury this morning summing up the defense testimony after which the prosecution will close with a statement from Hoey.

Following instructions from Judge McKenzie the jury will then deliberate on the guilt of the defendant.

The session of the trial yesterday was marked by another rebuke of the audience by Judge McKenzie. Judge McKenzie threatened to clear the courtroom at the next outburst of laughter such as marked a tiff between Hoey and the defense attorneys.

Witnesses Called

Witnesses called to the stand yesterday included Dr. O. B. Hanlon, of Martinez; Dr. U. S. Abbott of Richmond and Mrs. Lena C. Rouse, matron of the detention home who gave testimony of a technical nature.

Employes of the theater where Canelo was formerly employed were called to the stand to testify as to rules and regulations of the theater. They included A. V. Brady, manager; Daniel Reardon, associate manager and Mrs. Helene Goldsworthy, relief organist.

Brady testified that Canelo had not been relieved of his duties at the theater because of the charges made by the girl but because mechanical music had replaced the need of an organist at the local theater. Canelo received a written notice from his office on Nov. 9, that his duties

BIRTHS RECORDED

Two births were recorded yesterday with the Richmond City Health department. They are: Guadelupe Cabral, born Jan. 14, to the wife of Juan Cabral and Paula Malencha born Jan. 12, to the wife of Lorenzo Malencha.

FLOOD AREA DAMS UNDER GUARD

VINCENNES, Ind., Jan. 15.—UP—Creeping overflow from the rampaging Wabash river tonight brought destruction and even terror to much of southern Indiana.

The flood waters foamed higher than they did in the $50,000,0000 flood of 1913. The yellow water sloshed out over many thousands of acres and the river still was rising, inching past its record depth of 24 feet here.

Hundreds of families abandoned their homes to the flood.

Only three roads in the Vincennees vicinity were open. Roads and railroad tracks to the south were lakes swirling with debris swept down from above.

Skies began to clear with advent of near zero temperatures, however, and threats of further serious damage seemed lessened.

Levees hastily reinforced here to withstand a 26 foot flood were expected to hold.

Gov. Harry G. Leslie ordered National Guard troops to guard weakened dams at Hazeelton where U. S. highway 41 skirts the river. Rumors that Knox county residents had threatened to dynamite the fill to ease the strain on more important levee caused the troop order.

$112 IN FINES TAKEN IN COURT

Fines totaling $112.50 were collected in the court of Police Judge J. F. Plank in El Cerrito last night when a number of persons appeared ou charges of violating state and municipal laws.

Those fined were:

Mrs. T. A. Nemmett, faulty muffler $10; M. L. Bell, speeding $10; A. A. Bliss, bad lights $5; Y. M. Ayamatshu, speeding $10; Mrs. R. Cottrell, speeding $5; Chan Hing Sing, speeding $10; W. Gillo, bad muffler $5; E. H. Springer, speeding $7.50; F. C. Tratt, contempt of court $25; R. Kinsglow, speeding $10; G. O. Staton, speeding $10; M. R. Borgen, speeding $5; E. J. Reead, disturbing peace six months probation.

Two Steamers At Local Waterfront

RICHMOND PARENTS DECLARED MORE SENSIBLE THAN YOUTH

Dad and ma are more sensible than daughter and junior, according to the judgment of the younger generation itself. This verdict was the result of a debate held last night at the meeting of the Y. M. D. The topic of this significant debate was: Resolved: "That the younger generation is more sensible than the older generation." And the old folks for once received the decision!

The plea for the youngsters was that they enjoy more freedom of action, than the go-getters of the "gay nineties." The exponents of youth also pointed out that young men and women are assuming positions of greater importance than were ever held by the youth of any preceding generation.

However, the defenders of the "old folks" came back with an even more substantial argument. They stated that dad has had more responsibilities to bear than his successors will ever have (chopping wood for the kitchen stove, etc.), and that he was forced by circumstances to toil harder than his white collared son. Self-control was pointed out as the crowning reason for the statement that junior has yet far to go if he is to measure up to pa's standard (although junior perhaps thinks differently following a paternal lecture on the virtue of thrift).

So dad and ma can still give some advice to the younger generations, if the result of last night's debate is to be considered. Those upholding the elders were: Bill Fowell and Reynold Carlson. Those arguing in the cause of youth were Dick Crigler and Clayton D'Arcy.

Tito Malianni, pianist, played preceding the heated debate. The program was under the direction of Tony Santaella and Bill Fowell.

George Baldwin, secretary of the Richmond Y. M. D, attended a meeting in San Francisco last night of officers of Y. M. D. clubs of northern California.

TEACHER IN POISON NET

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—UP—Charged with sprinkling arsenic in the breakfast dishes of 18 children at a summer camp in New Jersey, Miss Pearl Topper, 27 year old school teacher and graduate of Columbia university, was held in $50,000 bail today at arraignment in west side court.

Miss Topper, it is charged quarreled with the cooks at the camp and as a result was discharged. To obtain revenge, New Jersey authorities say she placed the arsenic in the children's dishes. They all became ill and one is not wholly recovered from the effects of the poison, it is charged.

Miss Topper denied the charge.

Health Group To Study Families

MARTINEZ Jan. 15.—Dr. I. O. Church, health director, announced today that 50 Contra Costa county families picked at random at points throughout the county, will be made the subject of a year's study to obtain data on the cost of medical attention.

The announcement came today with the arrival of Miss Margaret Klem of Washington, D. C., representing the National Conference on cost of medical care and working directly under Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur.

Driver Pays $5 Fine In Court

Victor Spingoli, 732 Fourth street Oakland, was fined $5 when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Arthur Alstrom yesterday on a charge of driving his car without a tail-light.

Spingoli, arrested several months ago, failed to appear in court on the day he was summoned. A warrant for his arrest was issued. Upon learning that this had been done, Spingoli appeared before Alstrom and paid his fine. The warrant was withdrawn.

Nevada Selects Dam Representative

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 15.—UP—Appointment of Thomas Cole, of Pasadena, as official Nevada state representative at the coming Boulder Dam conference was announced by Governor Balzar today.

DRY LAW IN EFFECT 10 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—UP—The tenth anniversary of national prohibition dawns to find the issue before the country in a more comprehenesive way than at any time in the decade of its controversial history.

Congress is beginning work on an elaborate program, one of the most comprehensive ever submitted by a president on any subject to chink up the gaps in the Volstead act which became effective ten years ago, on Jan. 16, 1920.

President Herbert Hoover submitted this program in response to a Congressional controversy over the effectiveness of enforcement. Now the program itself has turned up another controversy that promises to keep the issue very much alive for the rest of the present session of Congress.

Chairman Wickersham of the Law Enforcement commission answered today criticism from congressional constitutional lawyers, which included drys that the proposed change in court procedure is unconstitutional. He said it violates no constitutional rights and is similar to procedure long followed in states.

The controversy leaves a rough road. Recommendations upon which House committees soon will begin work include transfer of to relieve congestion in federal courts and a stronger dry law the enforcement laws; measures for the capital of the nation.

BAY POINT TO GET GAS FIRST

MARTINEZ, Jan. 15.—According to an announcement today by Myles Gahan, manager of the Contra Costa county division of the Coast Counties Gas and Electric company, Bay Point will be the first point to be served with natural gas in this division. He stated that natural gas is now flowing in the pipe lines of the company and will be available for the use of the company's customers at Bay Point tomorrow.

Gahan said that in his estimation it will be only a short time before it will be in general use throughout the division, as construction work on the pipe lines to bring the natural gas to this community is being rushed to completion.

Natural gas, according to Gahan, is far more efficient than the manufactured product as it contains more than twice as many heat units.

So that it will be easy to detect when the flame is burning or not, a means has been found to give the natural gas an odor not dissimilar from that of the manufactured product. This according to the manager, will make it as safe to use as manufactured gas.

Streets Flooded By Heavy Rains

Rain, more rain and still more rain drenched Richmond yesterday and last night and at an early hour this morning the storm was still in progress.

Richmond streets in some sections of the city were flooded either by clogged or overloaded sewers.

Near the Carquinez hotel at Tenth street and Nevin avenue the streets were flooded for more than an hour before the sewer inlet was cleared.

Motorists driving down Tenth street to Cutting boulevard experienced difficulty in driving through the pools of water caused by the overflow of the storm sewer. In some sections of the street the water was more than a foot deep.

South Thirteenth street, south of Cutting boulevard was flooded as were portions of the boulevard.

MOTHER TO BE IN COUNTY JAIL ON RUM COUNT

MARTINEZ, Jan. 15—An expectant mother is today the point of interest of county authorities, following the report that she is in the county jail here, serving a sentence of 500 days for violation of the liquor law.

Efforts were being made today by Sheriff R. R. Veale to have the woman paroled in time to have the child born outside of the jail.

Arrested on Oct. 26 by county operatives, the woman was sentenced on Nov. 12 by Justice of the Peace George Duncan at Walnut Creek to pay a $500 fine. When she failed to satisfy the judgment, she was committed to 500 days in the county jail.

According to jail records, the woman was sent to the county hospital for observation and then returned to the jail. The husband of the woman is reported to be in Texas.

The policy of the county parole board is to parole persons jailed on liquor charges after 200 days of a 500 day sentence have been served.

If Mrs. Munoz is forced to serve 200 days of her sentence she will not be paroled until next May, or six months from the date of her imprisonment.

It is said that Mrs. Munoz expects her baby in a short time. Dr. F. W. Merrithew, Martinez physician and member of the Contra Costa county hospital staff who examined the woman, said that she is about to become a mother. He refused to approximate the date.

Sheriff Veale denied today that he knew the woman was about to become a mother when she was jailed.

CRASH FATAL TO PINOLE MAN

Maxilian Heintz, 60, of Pinole died at a Berkeley hospital yesterday morning as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

According to police reports, Heintz was struck by a car driven by Samuel I. Osborn, 28, of 2816 College avenue, Berkeley. The accident occured at San Pablo and University avenues.

Heintz was crossing San Pablo avenue when he was struck by the Osborn car, police reported.

Police are investigating the accident.

New Cottage To Be Constructed

J. F. Childs will build a cottage on Thirty-first street between Roosevelt and Clinton avenues according to a permit obtained yesterday in the office of A J. Hurley, city building inspector.

The structure is to cost $3200 and will include a garage.

Search Continues For Lost Flier

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—UP—Under the most favorable weather conditions since Maury Graham, Western Air Express mail pilot became lost between Las Vegas, Nev., and Salt Lake City, Utah, last Friday in a snowstorm the search continued today in new hope.

A report that a signal flare was seen Tuesday night on a hill beside Sawmill canyon, near Caliente, Nev., was being run down from the air and by pack mule.

The search was being continued near the Bristol mine, to the north, where a plane was reported seen early Saturday. A ship was reported Saturday morning at Caliente, too. Caliente is on the route between Las Vegas and Bristol.

SCHEDULE IN EFFECT BY APRIL 1

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15—(U.P.)—The entire system of the Pacific Gas and Electric company in northern and central California will have both gas and electric rates reduced, making a savings for consumers of approrximately $8,000,000.

This reduction was ordered today by the State Railroad Commission, which declared that profits of the company are in excess of the seven per cent ratio which is considered fair.

Reduction of gas rates will amount to $6,000,000 of the total, and decreasing of electric rates to $2,000,000.

New Rates Soon

The new gas rates will go into effect March 1 and the gas rates on about April 1.

The new rates will be on a trial basis; if they prove satisfactory, they will be made permanent.

2000 REGISTER IN RICHMOND

To date more than 2000 voters of Richmond have registered for the new great register according to Art Faris, chief deputy registration clerk of this city.

Faris, yesterday dispatched a large number of registrations to the county clerk in Martinez. It represents the second shipment of these forms since registration started on the first of the year.

The Register of 1929 contained the names of more than 9000 voters and it is expected that number will be exceeded this year.

Pilot Killed In Carrier Crash

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 15—(U.P.)—Lt. J. G. Water, of the battle fleet air squadron, was killed today when his plane overshot the landing deck of the airplane carrier U. S. S. Saratoga and sank in 235 fathoms of water.

Aviation pilot Marvel, flying with Lt. Water, freed himself just after the craft hit the water and was rescued, but Lt. Water was held prisoner.

Pittsburg Fire Incendiary Says School Head

PITTSBURG, Jan. 15.—Fred S. Ramsdell, city superintendent of schools, today expressed the belief that the fire that caused $500 damage to the manual training building of the Pittsburg grammar school last Sunday, was of incendiary origin.

Ramsdell based his opinion upon the fact that a padlock had been ripped off the door leading to the storage room of the building where the fire broke out, and the lack of any substance that might cause flames from spontaneous combustion.

Charles Scudero, chief of the police and fire departments of Pittsburg, and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Harrison, who investigated the fire, expressed belief that the blaze was due to spontaneous combustion. The lock, they said was torn away by firemen in an attempt to gain entrance.

Storms Strike Hawaiian Islands

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 15.—UP—Storms and high winds swept the Hawaiian islands today. Reports from Waianea on the Island of Oahu said two fishing sampans had been washed out to sea and five others were washed ashore and wrecked. The steamer Niggaro was unable to enter the harbor from Vancouver, B. C.

THE WOMAN OF IT

The Fifty-Fifty Wife and the Home

DOES the married woman who makes money refuse to make a home? Does the wife who can do something else besides cook consider cooking beneath her?

It is not we or most other fifty-fifty wives who say "yes" to these questions, but hostile critics. Many base their opposition to wage-earning for the wife on the theory that she who does it insists on putting her husband out to board, or on poisoning him with bad food at home.

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Believe it or not, neither arrangement is usual, among the women we know who keep on with some sort of paid work after marriage. They do have homes, as well as jobs. They take a stubborn satisfaction in proving that they can play the new game and the old one too. They manage to preserve "freedom for the wife to do her own job and yet all the real values of happy home life," as Katharine Brush, author of "Young Man of Manhattan," that brilliant new novel of fifty-fifty marriage, defined its chief problem in the recent interview which she gave us for The Evening World.

After the publication of that interview we received a letter which so honestly voices the dark suspicion directed from many quarters at the fifty-fifty wife that we thought our readers would be interested both in the letter itself and in Miss Brush's honest and happy answer to it.

"Your interview with Miss Katherine Brush was well written and interesting and I enjoyed it," writes Hester Graham. "I cannot tell (you keep these things deftly concealed) how you yourself were affected by the tone of silly snobbishness in the writer's credo. I was particularly irritated by her plea not to put words about 'making' my husband's dinner in the piece. Some of the most brilliant women I have ever known have been good cooks and proud of it.

"Now I may be wrong, but I am assuming from the trend of the story that what Miss Brush immediately resented was the assumption that she could or would 'make dinner.' Because the lady sells her work to editors she evidently fancies that she is above the serious business of home-making.

"This strikes a decidedly false note, it seems to me. Please let us know, in your column, what you think about it. Is it beneath the dignity of an intelligent woman to cook?

"WHAT I take to be Miss Brush's attitude is so snobbish and so typical of a certain group of young women in New York and the sentiments are based on what seem to me entirely false premises. For example, Miss Brush is lucky, indeed, in being able to 'quite thrill' her little boy. But haven't you known men and women who, while they would not perhaps use the word 'thrill' in connection with their mothers, have a feeling fond and fine beyond words to express, yet are able to remember those same mothers engaged in the unromantic act of frying doughnuts?

"Being a good wife or a good mother isn't all a matter of being lipsticked and charming. I am all for the lipstick and the charm, too, but I am inclined to question the innate intelligence and good taste of a woman who bases her claim to distinction on so flimsy a social fabric.

"Sophie Kerr, the most delightful author-gourmet I know, would, I think, agree with me that the implication which Miss Brush has 'tought all my life'—the implication that she might know how to, or be able to cook—is scarcely such an insulting one as to enrage all her family and friends.

"Yours for better meals and straighter thinking."

AND here is the case for the defense which, at our request, Miss Brush has written for the column:

"I have read with interest and appreciation Miss Graham's letter to you about your interview with me. I have, in fact, read it twice. The first time was this morning at my all-too-new apartment, where I sat on a barrel of china, directing the work of two electricians and three plasterers and some carpet men and a paperhanger or so, and occasionally remonstrating—not too mildly—with my small son, who wished to paint Jiggs on a mirror with the painter's green paint.

"'Because the lady sells her work to editors,' I read, 'she evidently fancies that she is above the serious business of home-making . . .'

"I tried again this evening. In the comparative calm of the hotel rooms where we still wait for 'Occupancy Oct. 1st, 1929,' to come true, I have been able to perceive that Miss Graham's point is better taken than at first appeared. It would, indeed, be silly snobbishness on my part to decline to cook dinner because I felt it was beneath me. I decline for no such reason—and decline is the wrong word, anyway. I can cook a dinner. I have cooked dinners—and breakfasts and luncheons and suppers; and oftener than Miss Graham would believe, I still do.

"MY OBJECTION to the former interviewer's quotation of me as having said, 'I must go home and make my husband's dinner,' was not that it sounded as if I could; but that its tone of compulsion, of enforced domesticity, was inconsistent with the fifty-fifty marital arrangement I had repeatedly described as mine. It sounded—the misquotations—as if I were obliged, always, to abandon any professional project or engagement of my own and rush home when my lord's dinner hour approached. This was unfair to him.

"It happens that I write better than I keep house. Both are full-time jobs, and I have elected the one for which I showed the greater aptitude. As an author, I am sometimes asked how I, personally, have solved, or how I seek to solve, certain domestic problems. My answers are not intended as general advice, neither are they meant to be in the slightest degree criticisms of those whose solutions to the same problems differ from mine. In your faithful report of our talk together you stressed the fact which I had stressed that individuals must work out their personal adjustments. 'Miss Brush merely instances her own domestic plans as the happy adjustment for herself and her husband.' This paragraph appears to have escaped Miss Graham altogether.

"Certainly it is not beneath the dignity of an intelligent woman to cook, when, as and if she chooses. I am with Miss Graham wholeheartedly on that. And certainly the innate intelligence and good taste of a woman who bases her claim to distinction on lipstick and charm—I think I quote Miss Graham correctly—should be questioned. So you see, we are in accord. There's no argument, really. Miss Graham feels that her scheme of living is a better scheme than mine; and I have no doubt that, for Miss Graham, it is."

Do You Know—

Pure white soap should always be used for washing glass because the coarse yellow soap makes it cloudy?

If you rub the range with newspaper every night after dinner you will need to polish it only once a week?

Applying liquid wax to the table oilcloth occasionally and polishing well afterward will make it easier to clean and it will wear much longer?

A jar of finely ground peanuts (salted) is a handy article to keep in the pantry closet because these will be so convenient when you must make a sandwich in a hurry?

The Difficult Teens

FRED had just received a letter from his aunt. "Let me see it," said his mother peremptorily as soon as he finished reading it. "I don't want to," answered Fred, as he started to leave the room. "It's my letter and I don't see why I should let you read it." Mrs. Marsh was dumfounded. "What has happened to the boy?" she appealed to Mr. Marsh when telling him the incident.

Nothing very serious is happening to Fred. He is simply "making his declaration of independence." Most sixteen-year-olds do this sooner or later. If Mrs. Marsh simply had asked the boy what there was of particular interest in his letter he probably would have handed it over to her without question. But her autocratic manner in demanding the letter made him revolt.

When young people reach their teens they think they are already grown up; hence they keenly resent being treated as little children. If parents treated their adolescents in the same manner they do their mates and friends they would avoid a great deal of friction; and their guidance would be much more effectual.

When adolescent children do not receive the respect and consideration that they think their great maturity demands, they feel the need of asserting themselves to show how "grown up" they are. This assertion of independence takes varied and usually disconcerting forms. Many children flatly refuse their parents' requests and advice. Others take it upon themselves to advise and criticise their parents. These youngsters are convinced that they could manage their father's businesses and their mother's households much more capably than their parents; and they are not at all reluctant about giving advice. Still other young people think that by smoking or using rouge or staying up late at night they are demonstrating adulthood.

When we understand the underlying cause of all these unpleasant manifestations we are not so annoyed or so worried by them. They are simply declarations of independence. Sometimes we may even be able to see the humor in the situation, realizing that this is but a passing phase. Our youngsters will come back to normal just as soon as they feel that they have "put themselves across."

This assertiveness is really a healthy sign. We would not want our children to remain tied to our apron strings. They must break away from us and stand on their own feet. Just as we once weaned them physically, now is the time for mental weaning.

Youngsters who from their early years have been allowed to assume just as much responsibility as they were capable of will not feel such a marked need of asserting themselves at adolescence. And parents who treat their children of the teen age with the same respect they accord adults will save both themselves and their youngsters much unnecessary strain.

A Handy Silver Case

ONE housewife finds it decidedly more convenient to have her table silver hanging up than scattered all over the buffet drawer and it is less trouble than keeping it in separate cases.

She has a case of gray canton flannel with four rows of twelve pockets each. In the bottom row she keeps the serving pieces and the other three rows hold the spoons, knives and forks, each in two sizes, and half a dozen of each size. A length of the flannel adjusted with snap fasteners serves as a cover and the case has four rings across the top to hang on the hooks in the pantry right off the dining room. In the inside of the door to the dish closet in the dining room is a good place for this case.

Senator King of Utah, With a Desire to Be Called Watch Dog, Works Day and Night to Gain Information

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Senator William H. King, Democrat of Utah, speaks every day and sometimes often in the Senate. Occasionally he is interesting, frequently he is informative, generally he is wearing.

The Senator deserves a lot of credit for the time he devotes to informing himself about legislation before the Senate. He is censured for too much devotion to trivialities. He works in his office until 1 o'clock reading reports and hearings and texts of petty bills about which no one in particular cares much except a member has a political reason for wishing to have passed, seldom a venal one. King suspects each and every one. He would like to be called a watch dog.

When Senator King arises to interrupt a colleague he has a weakness for making a speech. That would take the speech-maker off the floor except that King contrives to get a question mark in at the end of his oration. It is an ungenerous thing to do. Senator King is not unkind nor discourteous by nature.

A matter is being discussed in Washington which would afford Senator King an opportunity to assert himself in an effective way to serve the Democratic Party. He could block one of those transparent little schemes for which his Republican colleague, Senator Reed Smoot, is famous and generally gets away with.

SMOOT OPPOSED ELECTION

Senator Smoot made the long journey back home to attend the funeral. While there he took occasion to express vigorous opposition to the immediate calling of a special election to fill the Leatherwood vacancy.

Under the Constitution of the United States a Governor of a State may appoint a United States Senator for a temporary or ad interim vacancy caused by death or resignation; he cannot fill a vacancy in the House.

A Member of the House of Representatives must come with a mandate from an electorate. The "founding fathers" devised the lower branch of Congress as the place where the people themselves would rule. That the House has become the handmaiden of successive Presidents is not to be charged to the framers of the Constitution.

Senator Smoot has been having some difficulties about the selection of a Post Office annex site in Salt Lake City. The issue is likely to recur soon. It would be advantageous if no voice in the House from the vigorous city by the salty waters blocked the Smoot schemes.

In every other State it is the rule to hold a special election to fill a vacancy in the House of Representatives as soon as possible. Senator Smoot thinks Utah would make a great mistake to do that.

Things do not look so good right now for the Republican organization in the four counties which compose the Salt Lake City district. Senator Smoot would just as soon not have a special election and a new Congressman.

Enter Senator King:

The Governor of Utah is a Democrat. His name is George H. Dern. He carried the State by 30,600 in 1928 at the same time President Hoover was carrying it by 18,300. Yet, the Governor seems awed by Senator Smoot who is a sad and beaten man in Washington in the very first chance he ever had to shine as a tariff expert.

Gov. Dern has been impressed by one of the sanctimonious characteristic Smoot transparencies. The Senator with an unfailing gift for useless statistics has declared that it would cost the State of Utah $60,000 to hold a special election for the choice of a successor to Mr. Leatherwood.

Senator Smoot holds that to be excessive. For some inexplicable reason Gov. Dern, a Democrat, agrees with him. The State Attorney General has rendered an opinion which holds a special election necessary while supporting the theory that no time is set when a Governor must call that special election.

Senator King has a great chance to quote the record on Senator Smoot, if he had the wit or the courage to do so.

The apostolic Smoot was among those to wax indignant on the State's Rights issue when "Boss Bill" Vare of Philadelphia was kept out of the Senate and Col. Frank Smith was denied a seat. He voted to seat both of them.

The opportunity of King, the Democrat, reposes in the fact that he has a swell chance to ride his Republican colleague, Smoot, from a one-arm lunch room to the Ritz.

My guess is that King will not do it, unless or until Jouett Shouse, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic National Committee, puts a burr under the King political saddle and tells the ever astute Charles Michelson to explode this latest of Reed Smoot's contraptions of cat-like cunning.

Smoot has been in a terrific row with the Treasury Department for several years over selection of a site for a Post Office-Federal Court annex in Salt Lake City. He has not been successful in putting over a project close to his heart even though the price of the site has been cut far below the original proposal.

No one accuses the saintly Senator of descending to graft. Some of his real friends in Washington would like for him to permit that a man fresh from Salt Lake City (it's a real nice town, I ought to say, to those who've never been there), to argue the thing out in the House where appropriations originate. Senator King ought to insist on just that.

"WHAT is peninsula, Dad?"

"I'm surprised at you, son. Haven't you had that in your geography?"

"No, Dad, we haven't got to peninsulas yet."

"Then why do you ask?"

"Because last night you said Alaska was a peninsula."

"So it is."

"But why is Alaska a peninsula?"

"Because a peninsula is a body of land almost entirely surrounded by water."

"Why is a peninsula almost entirely surrounded by water?"

"Because if it were entirely surrounded by water it would be an island."

"Is a Prohibitionist an island?"

"What an absurd question! Of course, a Prohibitionist isn't an island."

"Why isn't a Prohibitionist an island? He's entirely surrounded by water, isn't he?"

"Oh, go to bed!"

Planetarium

English newspapers devote a good deal of space to a plan by a learned astronomical society to erect a planetarium—that is to say, a miniature copy of the heavens in which each constellation visible to the naked eye in the sky will be represented by small gilded balls. It will be possible to gain an approximate idea of the comparative size of the heavenly bodies and follow their movements. It is said that England wants to follow the example of Germany and Austria and America in establishing such a copy of the vast ether. No mention is made of Holland, which possesses perhaps the most famous planetarium at the little Frisian town of Franeker. A simple wool-comber by the name of Eyse Eysingha constructed the thing in the seventeenth century. By the introduction of a subtle mechanism on a floor above it is possible to follow the movements of the sun, moon and stars with an accuracy that has never failed during the past three hundred odd years. Eysingha was of the type of the lens polisher of Amsterdam, Spinoza, who also had a hobby on the side.

Communicative Ducks

Great indignation reigns in Berlin student circles. It is well known that these "Herren" have a positive mania for duelling. For the most futile reasons they carve each other up in good style. In recent years they cover their faces and bodies with a mask and shield to prevent serious accidents. However, American and English tourists often ask official guides to take them to beer cellars frequented by students in the hope of seeing a student duel. Unfortunately for the visitors, they don't fight every day. But a remedy has been found. Fake students now stage fake duels and guides take large parties of visitors from the hotels to witness these sanguinary exploits. Duellers and guides were just beginning to coin a few marks when the genuine students got wind of the fraud. A detachment of the latter descended into the cave where the presentation was in progress and attacked all present, hacking right and left indiscriminately among visitors and actors. Then the police intervened and another battle was staged, for fake and genuine combined in a vicious onslaught against the forces of law and order.

Their Handwriting

Are great writers necessarily afflicted with bad handwriting? A French paper puts the question. But there seems to be no hard and fast rule. The writing of Victor Hugo, one of his publishers said once, "resembled a battlefield on a piece of paper." The typesetters who succeeded in deciphering Balzac were often desperate and one is said to have gone crazy after hours of vain effort. Robert Louis Stevenson was even worse. No printer ever could make out what he had written. Stevenson had to assist in copying what he had put down in the first place. Sydney Smith could not decipher his own handwriting after twenty-four hours. On the other hand, certain modern English writers, and not the least, like Arnold Bennett, Thomas Hardy and H. G. Wells, wrote impeccably, perfectly legibly and even elegantly. But it should not be forgotten, either, that none of these three started out on a writing career in their youth. Arnold Bennett was destined for the bar and served his time in a barrister's office. The late Thomas Hardy began as an architect, and H. G. Wells started out in life as a draper's clerk.

Austrian Hymn

For a long time the question of the "Bundeshyme," the national anthem of the Austrian republic, has been passionately discussed between the majority parties and the opposition. After the collapse of the monarchy the then Socialist Government abolished Haydn's old popular hymn, "Gott Erhalte," because it was a glorification of the Emperor and the Hapsburgs. After some time a new hymn was introduced to the words of a poem by the then Chancellor, Dr. Renner, under the title of "Der Berglaenderbund," which the composer, Wilhelm Kienzl, set to music. But both the words and the music lacked direct appeal and simplicity. With the ascendance of the Christian Socialists, propaganda in favor of the fine old melody began, and Ottokar Kernstock, a Catholic priest and author who died not long ago, wrote new words to the music, calling the anthem "Sei gesegnetohne Ende." The Social Democrats opposed it vehemently, saying that the use of the old melody might pave the way for a return of the Hapsburgs. But the Vice Chancellor and the Army Minister, with the Cabinet's consent, have introduced it to the army, whence it will probably once more find its way to the masses. Incidentally, and perhaps significantly, the music of the Austrian national anthem is the same as "Deutschland Ueber Alles."

ALONE AT LAST

WHEN the honeymoon is over:

CROWN PRINCE HUMBERT—Alone at last!

PRINCESS MARIE JOSE—You said it, dear. Isn't it wonderful to be away from those cheering mobs, the state dinners, the royal opera performances and what the Associated Press calls the pomp and panoply of it all!

HUMBERT—Sure is, honey. Gosh, will you ever forget those seething crowds when we rode through the squares and public streets? The way they pushed us around and cheered us?

MARIE—I should say not! Why, we couldn't have created more excitement if we'd been Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. Could we, my darling Crown Prince?

HUMBERT—Call me Humbert.

MARIE—That's better, Humbert dear. And now, darling, you must be awfully tired after those rounds of dinners, speeches and receptions. Still, I suppose you've got to get used to them because some day you'll be King.

HUMBERT—Be King! My gosh, Marie Jose, after all those flashlights, hand-shakings, movietones, boxes at the opera, dinners and speeches, I could be Jimmy Walker!

* * *

MARIE—And me! I don't know how many times I had to run out on that palace balcony and show myself to the crowd. But some one told me I took more bows than Mary Garden.

HUMBERT—Dear, I'll bet you did. Still, it was lots of fun, even though it was wearing.

MARIE—Yes, it was nice. But I'd have enjoyed it more alone. I did so want to see the pigeons in front of St. Peter's and jump down to Pompeii to take in the ruins and that boat trip to the Blue Grotto. And I wanted to send picture postcards back to some of the folks in Belgium.

HUMBERT—Oh, we can take in all those places peacefully after this royal wedding blows over. Nobody'll notice us then.

MARIE—Will it blow over in a couple of weeks?

HUMBERT—Gee, dearie, I'm afraid not. You see, with the Prince of Wales out of the way for a while, we're liable to cop all the royal publicity till he shoots a lion or something. And say, speaking of Wales, that royal train you and your folks came down in from Belgium got even a bigger splurge in the papers than the Prince's when he was rushing back from Africa a year ago. How did you enjoy that royal train, anyway?

* * *

MARIE—The coffee was awful. But tell me, sweetie, how did everything go off at the wedding?

HUMBERT—Well, Mussolini didn't kick, so it must have been all right. Say, do you know what he pulled off just before the wedding?

MARIE—No. What?

HUMBERT—He gave orders that all the newspapers describe my brother as the bridegroom's attendant.

MARIE—What was the idea of that?

HUMBERT—Mussolini claimed he was the best man there.

MARIE—But, anyway, honey, it's all over now.

HUMBERT—Yeah. And what are you going to do with those ten skins of Alaska seal Hoover sent you?

MARIE—If I could get six more I'd have a fur coat.

HUMBERT—Gee, it's great to be married!

MARIE—Isn't it, Humbert dear! And I intend to settle down and be the bestest little wife possible. To-morrow I'm going to learn how to cook spaghetti.

Ripe olives associated with the appetizer of hors d'oeuvres tray refuse to be restricted to a special province. Varied and unusual are the good things in which they have a part.

NANCY DORRIS.

Sandwich bread, sandwich fillings, canapes of parts, salads, sauces for meats and duck, omelet, croquettes, salad dressings and soup are improved by the rich flavor of the dark-skinned olive.

During January, when after theatre or bridge bites, or the Sunday evening refreshments consist of a hearty salad, plain sandwiches, a hot beverage or two and a very good sweet, the olive lends a new note to the menu.

Quite different from the usual run of supper salads is

OLIVE, APPLE AND CELERY SALAD

One cup diced celery
Two cups diced apple
One-half cup shredded ripe olives
One green pepper, chopped
One-fourth cup broken walnuts
Salt
Lettuce hearts
Boiled salad dressing
Servings: five or six

Just before serving mix lightly the diced celery, apple, olives, peppers and walnut meats, sprinkle with salt and then fold in the boiled dressing thoroughly chilled in the refrigerator. Serve on crisp green lettuce or romaine hearts and garnish with strips of green pepper.

The recipe for the dressing

BOILED SALAD DRESSING

One-half teaspoon salt
One-fourth teaspoon paprika
One and one-half tablespoons sugar
One teaspoon mustard
One and one-half tablespoon flour
Two egg yolks or one egg
One tablespoon butter
Three-fourths cup rich milk
One-fourth cup vinegar, scant

Combine the salt, paprika, sugar, mustard and flour in the double boiler, add the egg and beat until smooth, add the milk gradually, then the vinegar and last the butter; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove at once and chill until wanted.

Ripe olives inject new interest in

POTATO SALAD

One and one-half cups potato salad
One-half cup diced celery
One-half cup shredded olives
One tablespoon minced onion
Two hard cooked eggs chopped
French dressing
Boiled salad dressing
Romaine or chicory

Pour the French dressing over the potatoes and let stand half an hour or longer, then drain and mix lightly with the celery, olives, onion and chopped eggs. Fold in the chilled boiled dressing (see recipe above) and place in a nest of crisp greens. Garnish with strips of pimento or beet root stars.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

You men who would keep trim and fit . . . you women who covet the tantalizing curves of the truly modern figure—when tempted to do yourself too well, light a Lucky instead. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

'UNHOLY NIGHT' MYSTERY FILM HERE

Stage tricks of Kellar, Herrmann, and other famous magicians, and lesser known tricks of the "spiritualistic mediums" whom the police are usually pursuing in large cities, were drawn upon to make mystery for the screen, in Lionel Barrymore's new production "The Unholy Night" coming tomorrow to the Fox-California theater, as an all talking production.

In this Metro Goldwyn Mayer filmization of Ben Hecht's mystery story, a complete spiritualistic "seance" was filmed, with actual "mediums" recruited from the business, staging materializations of ghosts, bell ringing, and the rest of their illusions before the camera. Improvements in these illusions through the adaptation of the famous "Kellar Blue Room,' a famous mystery of the stage, and the Herrmann ghost illusions, were injected to make one of the strangest scenes ever filmed in a motion picture. Barrymore, the director, during his days on the stage knew both Kellar and Herrmann well, and when he decided to stage a seance at once thought of their celebrated illusions.

The new story is a vivid drama of a London mystery, in which a group of officers are menaced by an uncanny, invisible enemy Scotland Yard, in solving the mystery, pursues the mysterious "Green Ghost," nemesis of the officers, through many strange adventures, and the seance is an astounding denouncement. Mysterious attacks under cover of the fog, sinister shadows and weird apparitions in a haunted manor house and other startling details keep the audience agog with excitement.

Also Our Gang comedy entitled 'Bouncing Babies."

MURDER TRIAL MARKED BY SCENES

OAKLAND, Jan. 15.—UP—Trial of Ernest Diaz for the double murder of Mary Munoz and Stanley Montero opened today with a screamed denial by the defendant.

After identification of pictures by the brother of the girl, Diaz turned on the prosecution and shouted:

"You're the guys trying to frame me for this murder."

He was quieted by his counsel Public Defender Willard Shea.

The outbreak followed the collapse of Jasper Munoz, who completely broke down when shown a picture of his dead sister.

Most of the first day of the trial was taken up with identification of the dead girl and testimony of the coroner. A map of the region in which the murder was said to have taken place was on exhibit in the court room.

The room was filled with spectators, many of them relatives and friends of the two found dead in their automobile parked on a residential street.

Stock Broker Speaks Before Kiwanis Club

Russell Colvin, San Francisco stock broker, was the principal shpeaker at a meeting of the Richmond Kiwanis club yesterday in the Hotel Carquinez.

Earl Corey was chairman of the day, and the program was supplied by Charles Rothrock. Rothrock played several numbers on a harp, accompanied by Mrs. Overman playing the piano accordian.

It was announced that Theodore Madsen, district trustee would go to Santa Cruz Jan. 18 to attend the annual meeting of the district trustee of the Kiwanis clubs of the state.

The attendance and birthday prizes this week were won by Joseph Hirth, Clifford Johnson Ert Udderberg and Al Goode.

High Debaters To Discuss Term Of U. S. President

Whether the presidential term should be lengthened to six years will be subject for debate at the meeting of the Richmond Union high school debating club on Wednesday. Roberta Jackson and Betty Jackson will argue in favor of lengthening the president's term in office, while Nicholas Begovich and Jay Vincent will dispute the longer term.

The sale of Student Body membership cards was the subject for general discussion at last night's meeting of the debaters.

It was decided that a debate will be held twice a month while round-table discussion will be held at the other two meetings of the month.

An especially large group of pupils was present at last night's meeting as a result of the club's drive for new members. Members of the organization visited each class in the high school, and urged membership in the debating club.

CARQUINEZ ARRIVALS

Among the guests who registered at the Hotel Carquinez yesterday were: W. G. Hamilton of El Paso; George Davidson, El Segundo. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Burke, Ukiah; C. D. Brackett, Santa Fe; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lucas, W H. Russell, Oakland; W. F. Douglas, Fresno; William F. Kaufman, Panama and W. Doane, San Francisco.

HORSES KILLED IN RESCUE OF FLIER

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Jan. 15.—UP—A good Samaritan of Montana's frozen wilderness risked his life and killed two of his horses to bring a storm bound Army flier of the "Arctic Patrol" to civilization, it was revealed here tonight.

Lieutenant Elliott, whose plane was forced down east of Fort Benton Monday, told an amazing story of a rancher's bravery and fortitude.

With his plane disabled, the flier was faced with a winter sojourn at the W. Macheos ranch. Tuesday morning, however, Macheos decided to brave winter perils and transport the pilot to the nearest railway point at Big Sandy, 50 miles distant.

Sub Zero Weather

With Elliott ensconced in the wagon bundled in furs, Machoes' team was forced through snowdrifts that at times almost covered the animals. The weather was sub-zero.

The team stumbled into Big Sandy late last night ,exhausted from the 21-hour trip over the frozen wastes. The horses died shortly afterwards. Macheos' condition required immediate medical care.

The plane will be left at the ranch until the spring thaw.

Planes Scattered

The Army squadron which started out 22 planes strong from Mount Clemens, Mich., for Spokane, Wash., was scattered along the route in Montana tonight with little prospect of regaining full strength.

The hazards of winter have followed the expedition from the start, fulfilling the wish of Maj. Ralph Royce, flight commander, that the round trip flight would furnish a test for both men and machines under adverse weather conditions.

Six pursuit planes which left Great Falls at noon for Kalispell were forced to turn back when they reached the Continental divide due to a severe storm.

Four of the group returned here safely. Lieut. N. D Stillin made an emergency landing at Brady and Lieut. R. K. Giozannoilli was forced down at Powers, after their fuel supply ran low.

GOLD SEEKERS BRAVE COLD, BLIZZARD

KINGMAN, Ariz., Jan. 15—(U.P.)—Too anxious to await favorable weather and spurred by a lust for gold and sudden riches, a half dozen veteran mining men set out from this little town at the break of dawn today to conquer impassable roads and snow bound rails in an effort to reach the site of Arizona's latest gold strike.

Overhanging clouds threatened more snow in answer to the weather man's prophecies that the blizzard which struck this district early this week and raged for more than two days may renew its fury. The storm had let up late Wednesday.

65 Mile Trek

Undaunted by warnings that it was foolhardy to attempt the 65 mile trek over the heavily forested country, the little group set out on snowshoes, determined to be the first to reach the mountain area from which drifted reports of one of the richest gold strikes of this section.

The strike was made by Billy Dunlap, George Fancher and E. V. Givens, veteran mining men. When they reached Kingman late Saturday they announced they had discovered ledges containing primary gold assaying from $40 to $100,000 per ton, and they produced gold and the assayer's reports to prove their statements.

The report spread like wildfire. It set Kingman's 2000 souls agog and hurried preparations were made to rush the scene of the strike—the barren Mojave mountains ,recognized for years as being rich in mineral deposits.

Worst Storm

That night northern Arizona's worst snowstorm in years struck Kingman, and by morning had assumed blizzard proportions, crippling traffic and blocking roads. While it raged, prospectors, lumbermen, grocers, mechanics physicians, barbers and other gold-seekers impatiently sat upon hurriedly packed knap-sacks waiting for the storm to abet itself.

Today the anxiety was increased when miners from the Tom Reed properties where a rich strike was made less than ten days ago, worked their way through deep drifts to get supplies—bringing with them the report that 10 days of work there had netted gold ore estimated to be worth $35,000.

The vanguard of the gold seekers set forth, with the realization that they will be battling against odds of snow-blocked trails and roads, further storms and wild forest animals.. But the gold fever had struck them hard.

The more cautious are awaiting warmer weather, and the opening of roads on which they could make part of the trip by auto and on horseback.

Scene From The Virginian

MARY BRIAN and Richard Arlen are two of the featured stars in "The Virginian" which is now playing at the Fox-California theater.

Rodeo Woman's Funeral Today

Mrs. Jane Estelle Haggard, 73, of Rodeo, died at her home yesterday morning. She leaves a husband, Walter J. Haggard, and three sons, Emmett Rheu of Ceres; Julian P. Rheu of Livermore and John Haggard of Rodeo.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at Rodeo under the direction of the Wilson and Kratzer chapel. Interment will be at the Sunset View cemetery.

COOPER MAKES HIT IN FILM HERE

As befits the greatest outdoor spectacle classic of film history, Victor Fleming, a genius in that field of motion picture production was chosen as the man to direct "The Virginian" which closes tonight at the Fox-California theater.

Fleming is remembered as the director of "Abie's Irish Rose" "The Way of All Flesh" "Wolf Song" and many outdoor scenics.

Gary Cooper the handsome, rangy youth from the Montana ranches whose climb to the top of film success has been both rapid and sensational will be seen and heard in the title role. It is his first full dialogue part. Walter Huston, veteran of the Broadway stage and remembered for his all talking film roles in "Gentlemen of the Press' and "The Lady Lies" will be Trampas, the villain of the play. Richard Arlen and Mary Brian have leading supporting roles.

"The Virginian" is based on the novel by the same name written by Owen Wister in the 80s and known to this day as one of the greatest of America's literary classics. Wister and Kirk La Shelle then transcribed the novel into a play which later became one of the enduring favorites of the American and European stages. The part of the Virginian, the hero role in the play, was established by Dustin Farnum in New York years ago. Since then many other prominent actors have appeared in the same role with great success.

The medium of the all talking screen brings the famous classic to millions of show-goers in a new and more realistic dressing. Under the direction of Fleming the picture was filmed and 'miked' in the great outdoors of California's cattle range country in Sonora county. All the gripping sounds all the spectacular scenery, are brought together in a realistic plot fabric, rich in comedy dialogue, action, cowboy singing and high romance in "The Virginian."

GOLF PLAYERS SHARING PROFITS

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—UP—The big boys of professional golf are being kind to each other this winter and are sharing the open tourney prizes over a wide field.

A survey today of the winter campaign which began at Tulsa on Oct. 12, and which passed an important milestone at Los Angeles yesterday, shows a generous assortment of prize money winners.

This is in direct contrast to the 1928-29 season which was so thoroughly dominated by Horton Smith.

Wood Starts

Craig Wood, blonde Forest Hill N. J., pro, started off with a record which looked as though it would be a replica of the Smith performance of a year ago.

Wood took the Oklahoma City Open, was sixth in the Oregon Open at Portland, and then won the Hawaii Open. Since the victory at Honolulu however, Wood has been well down the ladder.

Horton Smith has had a full share of victories. He took the Oregon Open, the Berkeley Open and the Pasadena Open. He made a game try in the Los Angeles $10,000 Open, but tied for second money, with Bobby Cruickshank of New York. He was also second in Hawaii.

Victory Popular

One of the most popular results of the winter campaign was the victory scored by Densmore Shute of Columbus, Ohio, in the Los Angeles Open. Shute was one of the sensations of the National Open at Winged Foot last summer when he shot fine golf to rank third.

Leo Diegel repeated in the P. G. A. tourney at Los Angeles. He won out over Johnny Farrell, 6 and 4 in the final, to retain the title. Diegel likes to win the P. G. A. All pros do for among them that title is desired above all save the National Open.

Farrell incidentally, appears to have made an improvement in his play, which was surely sour enough in the Open. Diegel will be the favorite to win at Agua Caliente, his home course.

JAILED MOTHER IN CRITICAL CONDITION

SALINAS, Jan. 15.—UP— A number of organizations and individuals tonight had offered assistance to Mrs. Sue Brown, who was sent to jail here on a charge of violating prohibition laws while she was expecting a baby.

Although Mrs. Brown was in critical condition from shock of the news that her baby was born dead, she murmured appreciation when informed that her fine had been paid and she would not have to return to jail when she recovers.

She also expressed appreciation that action had been started for an appeal of her case.

Mother Aided

The rapidity with which assistance was given her complicated the legal status of the case for a time.

A San Francisco newspaper sent a check for $272 so that a guard outside her door at the County Hospital here would be removed. Sheriff Carl Abbott announced the mother of two children, Catherine, four, and Arthur, one, was no longer a prisoner on the charge of possessing "home brew."

Almost simultaneously the Superior court, without knowledge the fine had been paid, accepted notice of appeal in behalf of Mrs. Brown and declared her liberated. The acceptance could not have been given if the fine had been paid earlier.

Appeal Made

Ray Baugh, justice of the peace who sentenced Mrs. Brown to serve 25 days in the county jail when she could not pay a $300 fine, appealed to the county parole board for her release early in the day. He has said he did not know she was an expectant mother when he ordered her to the prison.

Mrs. Brown had served a week when she was hastily transferred to the County hospital and suffered a breakdown Tuesday.

Her husband claimed their home was broken into while he was absent and without cause, although D. M. Laugherty, county agent had a search warrant. He has asserted his wife was confused in court and was not permitted time to get counsel or friends to defend her. Baugh replied that he offered a stay of execution.

J. A. Bardin, former superior judge, has volunteered his services to aid the woman.

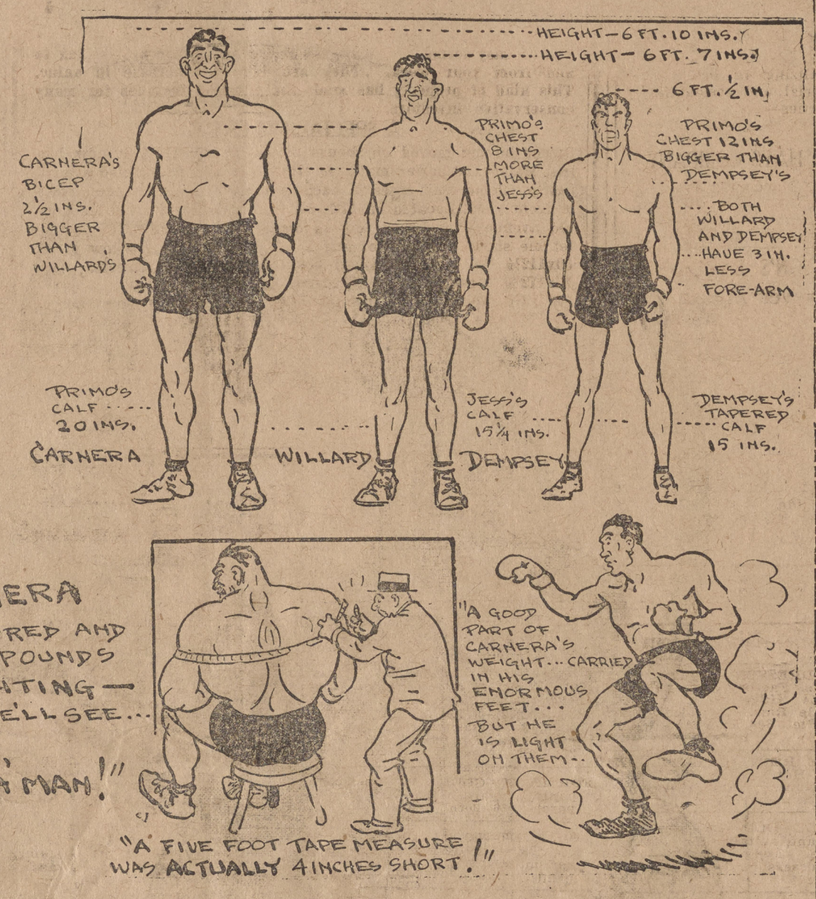
Mass Meeting

Plans have been made for a mass meeting to request Grand Jury action.

Notice was received here that Mrs. J. B. Casserly proposes to present facts of the case to Gov. C. C. Young.

Mrs. Marie M. Kinnon, representing the Business and Professional Women's club, offered the services of that organization in case Mrs. Brown needed them.

OVERLOADING BEEF MARKET! By Burris Jenkins Jr.



Gael, Bronco Cagers Meet In February

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, Jan. 15.—Arrangements were completed here today by which the Saint Mary's and Santa Clara cage teams will meet in their annual basketball series at Kezar pavilion in San Francisco on the evenings of Feb. 25, March 1 and March 6.

Some difficulty was experienced in bringing the two colleges together after their break last year before the third and final game of the series over the choice of officials. Both teams, however made rearrangements of their present schedules, however, and the fans are rejoicing at this "natural" which has packed Zazar in past years.

The Saints, under Capt. Carroll Pitchford, guard, have played six or seven games against clubs and colleges, and have met with indifferent success, because of a late start. The Broncs, recently returned from a barnstorming trip in the northern part of the state, have won most of thier starts and look particularly strong with the same line-up as last year.

Bear Kills Hogs Shot By Farmer

HAYWARD, Wis. —(U.P.)— A large black bear, which within the past few weeks is known to have killed eleven hogs belonging to farmers in this vicinity was shot on the George McLeon farm, near here.

TWO ADDED TO TOLL OF GAS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15—(U.P.)—Two more vicims of carbon monoxide poisoning, caused by a gas heater burning in a tightly closed room, were found dead here today.

John Rogers, 75, and his wife, Ellen, 74 prominent Los Angeles residents died after they had turned on a heater in their bedroom, preparatory to retiring.

Two Filipino house boys in the home of Buddy Rogers were found unconscious in the room by the actor today, overcome by heater fumes, and were revived by an inhalator squad.

The deaths were the fourth here from gas heaters in two days and warnings were broadcast by the gas company officials.

Another World's Meanest Man

Record Low Price In Cars Established

BUTTE, Mont. —(U.P.)— Record low price for automobiles was established here when a bid of $7 by R. J. Garland bought two trucks of one and a half tons and a 15-passenger bus. The cars were sold at a sheriff's sale.

Woman Pipe Smoker Burns House Down

WESTPORT, Conn. —(U.P.)— Miss Ida Tyler, just an old fashioned person who prefers a pipe to a cigarette, has been warned to mind where she throws her matches. Recently while Miss Ida was reclining on her couch, ashes fell from her pipe and set the house afire. She escaped injury.

Richmond Boxer To See Action In Vallejo Ring

VALLEJO, Jan. 15—The weekly boxing program in Vallejo will be headlined Thursday evening with three 6-round bouts, featuring boxers from Oakland, Richmond, Napa and Santa Rosa.

In the top bout of the triple event Billy Toth, Santa Rosa middleweight, will meet Johnny Ramos, Oakland negro, for the third time. The first ended in a draw and the second in favor of Toth. Both were sensational fights with knockdowns featuring each.

Bob Stinnett of Richmond and "Red" Williams of Napa, middleweights, meet each other in a six rounder. They slugged four fast rounds to a draw here last week in the best fight on the card. Another such bout is expected this week.

In the other six round bout, Roy Stice, promising young Richmond lightweight, will meet Johnny Lawson, veteran Oakland battler. This is Stice's big chance to make good as he is facing the toughest lad he has been called upon to meet yet.

A four round feature bout and two preliminaries of three rounds each have been signed to complete the card.

Women To Face Jury Monday On Murder Charge

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 15.—UP—Trial of Mary Ann Kekahuna and Elizabeth Dong on charges of second degree murder that followed death of Cid Hudges, brother of an Arizona librarian, will start here next Monday, it was decided today.

Action of the case has been urged by Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona through the Interior department. The Senator said he was acting on behalf of Jane Hudgins of Phoenix, sister of the victim, who had alleged laxity in the prosecution.

Hudgins, a civil employe at Pearl Harbor, was killed last May. Authorities claimed Miss Kekahuna had admitted the charges against her but claimed she acted in self defense.

Pilot Risks Life To Aid Dying Child

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 15.—UP—An El Paso aviator risked his life in a perilous night flight to bring serum to Albuquerque for a little girl dangerously ill with cerebo-spinal meningitis.

The child, Florence Truswell, 9, still was in a critical condition today, although there still was hope that the serum would save her.

A request for the serum was telephoned to El Paso last night. E. C. Quick volunteered to make the flight.

Taking off as soon as the serum could be rushed to the El Paso airport, Quick flew along the unlighted airway, over the treacherous lava beds of New Mexico, where a forced landing would probably have meant death or injury.

He landed safely at the Albuquerque airport and within three hours after the serum had been ordered it was administered to the little girl.

Wild Goose Chase Marks Duck Hunt

John W. Jones, 129 Forty-fifth avenue, San Francisco went hunting Tuesday morning, resulting in a wild goose chase over countless miles of mud, rain and water for Police Inspector George Bengley.

When Jones failed to return to his home yesterday noon, his wife became frightened and called the Richmond police. She told them that her husband was going to shoot ducks on the Richmond waterfront and gave a description of the duck blind and where it was located.

Bengley drove his car out to the waterfront near the San Pablo creek slough where he was forced to abandon the car and advanced a la feet.

After he had walked three miles, and slipped six and had ruined his clothes, shoes and temper in the driving rain and mud, Bengley came upon an ark owned by E. Wilson, 1235 Oregon avenue, Berkeley.

Wilson told Bengley that Jones had spent the night with him on the ark and at noon had decided to go home.

When Bengley arrived at the police station a few hours later, dripping water from clothes, shoes and hat, he telephoned Mrs. Jones and told her that her husband was en route home.

Bengley changed clothes.

George Godfrey To Tangle With Max Schmeling

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—UP—The announcement today that George Godfrey, giant negro, has been selected as the opponent for Max Schmeling for a proposed fight at Atlantic City, March 29, aroused little interest in pugilistic circles.

Prospects of a foreign boxer gaining the world's heavyweight championship appear remote. Sharkey, on the form shown against Tommy Loughran, should dispose of Phil Scott in short order. Schmeling shapes up as a more dangerous opponent, although his record is not particularly impressive.

Vittorio Campolo and Primo Carnera, the other highly publicized foreigners, furnish no great threat to American supremacy.

Tuffy Griffiths, the Iowa youngster, is looked upon as the most dangerous threat to Sharkey's reign as a champion—if Sharkey defeats Schmeling and becomes the recognized champion.

Enormous Shark Caught In Fish Net

NEWPORT, R. I. —(U.P.)— A nurse shark, 25 feet long and weighing nearly a ton, was caught recently in a fish trap which had been set for much smaller fry off Block Island.

SPEARS NAMED OREGON COACH

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 15.—UP—Another Big Ten coach heard the call of the Pacific coast tonight with the announcement by the Associated Students of the University of Oregon that Dr. Clarence Wiley Spears has been hired to coach the football team here on a five year contract at an annual salary of $11,500.

The nationally known mentor of the University of Minnesota football team will succeed Capt. John J. McEwan, whose contract was broken by the university in its final year.

Dr. Spears will receive $6500 annually for teaching in the school of physical education, it was announced.

Dr. Arnold Bennet Hall, president of the University of Oregon will meet Dr. Spears at Missoula Mont. Friday and accompany the new coach to the campus.

High Cagers To Meet Hayward In League Game

Brain and muscle will be greatly needed tonight by the Richmond Union high school cagers when they invade the Hayward high school gymnasium in the first game of the Alameda County Athletic league. Boasting one of the snappiest group of athletes in the eastbay district, Hayward will present formidable opposition to the local warriors.

The Richmond varsity squad is rather in need of several more tried and tested veterans, as only two former varsity cagers are still playing for the local high school. Yet the graduates from the B squad are full of pep and anxious to start the league season in a first class manner, which promises a rather hot contest for tonight.

The Richmond B's are also expected to provide an exhibition of fast basketball tonight, as they are reckoned as fine a squad as the local varsity. The Richmond high school C's, although not in the league, possess speed which ought to carry them through safely in tonight's C battle.

The tourney will commence at 7 o'clock when the C's tangle and will be followed by the B game at 8 o'clock. The main event of the evening will occur at 9 o'clock. Tito Malianni, local referee, will preside over tonight's games.

According to pre-game enthusiasm, an especially large caravan of Richmond rooters will make the trip to Hayward tonight.

George Degnan Named Head Of High Graduates

The Richmond Union high school graduating class for the spring of 1930 recently elected George Degnan as president of the class. Schyuler Albert was chosen to fill the position of vice president, while Geraldine Cleek was elected as secretary treasurer of the organization.

The last term of pupils at the local high school is always occupied with many and varied social events. Senior Day, on which the graduates make merry, is a tradition. Dances, suppers, and many other activities mark the end of the season. The present graduation class intends to soon start planning for these social events.

The class meets each Tuesday morning during the regular advisory class period.

Liver, Gall Bladder and Stomach Trouble Relieved

2946 Morgan Ave.
Oakland, Cal.
Nov. 19, 1929.
THE FONG WAN HERB CO.
Dear Mr. Fong—I am writing this letter to express my gratitude for the splendid results and benefits I have received from the use of the Chinese Herbs prepared by you.
I had a complication of Liver, Gall-Bladder and Stomach Trouble with sharp, stabbing pains in the lower right side of my Abdomen. The region of the Liver was exceedingly sore and tender; so much so that even loose clothing became irritating and uncomfortable. My Stomach was also very sore to the touch and felt as if there were a lump the size of an egg in it. After meals, food which was very sour and burned the throat, was returned to the mouth. This condition steadily became worse over a period of a year. During this time, I was treated by two doctors without any appreciable results. Both decided that an operation was necessary.
By good fortune, I came into contact with a man whom you had treated successfully for an Ulcerated Stomach, and he strongly urged me to take your treatment. This I did.
Results were noticeable the very first week, and now, after six weeks, I am entirely free from the terrible stabbing pains and the soreness over my Liver. My digestion is good. The old feeling of lassitude has completely disappeared and I feel much brighter and more energetic than I have for years.
I am most happy to strongly recommend the herbs of the Fong Wan Herb Co. as prepared by you.
Wishing you unbounded success, and again thanking you for what you have done for me, I am
Very cordially yours,
CYRIL MAW.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

"GENERAL CRACK"
BY
GEORGE PREEDY

Copyright 1928 by Dodd Mead & Co., Inc.

The Warner Bros. & Vitaphone production starring John Barrymore, is based on this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Count Hensdorff, special envoy of King Leopold, offers General Crack the hand of the Archduchess, as dowry, if he will aid the King against the Allies. But Crack intends to marry Princess Eleanora. Hensdorff tells him she is destined for the Emperor, and that the other marriage is preferable. Crack is going to Dursheim, the Anhalt-Dessau estate, to ask for the hand of Eleanora. So is Leopold. If she is intended for the Emperor, and the latter will forego her in his favor, then he will fight for Leopold.

LEOPOLD was pleased when he was able to escape from Anhalt-Dessau and Hensdorff, and get away by himself out of the Chateau of Schonbuchel, which must be, for him, a place of restraint and humiliation.

He passed quickly through the small park and lawns of Schonbuchel and came out into the beautiful woods of Dursheim.

It was the hour of sunset, and an exquisite ethereal light suffused the gorgeous scene.

He entered the wood, so dark and hushed amid this last brilliance of the day, and had not gone many paces in on the forest path before he saw a girl seated beneath a beech tree—Eleanora, free, happy, and singing because the tasks of the day were over.

Leopold stood still at some distance from her, but almost instantly she was aware of him and looked round; a glance was sufficient to approve him as agreeable to the scene.

A lovely hour, a lovely meeting; the young man forgot all his vexations, as if an enchantment had banished them from his mind. Uncovering, he asked:

"I am above offence!"

"Where do these woods lead, Fraulein, and can I continue on this path?"

"I do not know," she smiled, "for I am never allowed to go very far."

"Nor do I," he answered, "desire to go any further."

"It is delightful here," said Eleanora. "I would like to live in the woods." She was so full of these thoughts that she could not avoid expressing them to this stranger, who seemed so gentle and courteous. "Is it not cool under the trees? And here, you can see the Danube, far below."

He came closer to her, and stooped to see the view she pointed out between the tree trunks; the last dance of the sunbeams through the leaves flashed on his light hair, and Eleanora looked at him with sudden pondering gravity.

"You are, sir, a stranger here?"

"Yes, and I am sorry for it—"

"I do not live here but I often come—here is Charlotte, she will tell you where the woods lead."

"I am staying at Schonbuchel," he explained, "with Count Hensdorff, and I was asking my way—"

When Charlotte had finished her directions, she spoke:

"I hope, sir, you will have a pleasant stroll—no doubt I shall see you again, for I, too, come from Schonbuchel."

"You are not," asked Leopold impulsively, "the Princess Eleanora?"

"Yes," she smiled, "I am indeed she. Have you, sir, heard of me?" she added, for she considered herself a schoolgirl and was surprised that any one should know of her existence.

"I have heard of you," replied Leopold, blushing violently.

"Come," said Charlotte, gently drawing the girl's arm through her own, "we shall be late—and you, sir, do not go too far, if they expect you at supper."

"I shall not go at all," replied Leopold gravely. "Where could I find a more delightful scene?"

He leant against the beech tree where the girl had been sitting, and watched the two women pass between the trees toward the Château; Eleanora looked back and smiled with gracious candour, and Leopold felt the world enlarge, open out and bloom, like a flower breaking from the confinement of the bud into the completion of a rich blossom.

"How I have been led by other people," he reflected curiously, "been forced to this and that against my will—"

The sun had sunk behind the hills and the wood was suddenly full of shadows.

Leopold sighed and turned slowly back towards Schonbuchel. As he turned into the park, doubtful of his mood and conscious of a tremulous exaltation, he heard a low voice which broke most rudely into his humour.

"Good evening, Caesar."

Leopold started, and looking up, for his glance had been downcast, saw Christian mocking, lolling on a splendid marble bench beneath a twisted, leering statue of Silenus with pipes, that crowned a glade.

"Good evening, General Crack," replied Leopold coldly, stung by the disagreeableness of this meeting.

Christian leaned forward and laughed; he did not rise; his hat was on the seat beside him; he had not doffed it for Leopold.

"You seem in a pensive mood, Monseigneur," he remarked. "The scene is romantic, is it not?"

"I pray you, sir," answered Leopold stiffly, "respect my incognito. I would not have my presence here bruited about."

"Caesar's commands shall be respected," said Christian with ironic deference. "They have my sympathy. No one," he added, "would know Caesar without his purple—how easily is Imperial Majesty disguised!"

"But not so easily offended, Highness," said Leopold haughtily. "I shall not notice any of your provocation—"

"I have no wish to provoke you," smiled Christian. "I say, sir, you have my sympathy—my position is much as yours, you are Emperor of the West in the same fashion that I am Duke of Kurland."

Leopold bit his full lip, and retorted as indifferently as he could:

"And there the likeness ends."

"It does," admitted Christian. "There could hardly be two men more unlike than you and I."

Leopold wished to be gone, but could not; to walk away seemed like turning his back on an adversary; the other man held him by his challenging air as powerfully as if he gripped him by the hand.

Against his will, then, Leopold lingered; against his will he was impressed by this bold presence in front of which he felt insignificant. He looked, fascinated, at the gorgeous figure adorned with military finery, the dark resolute face, with the brilliant eyes that never seemed to falter or droop, the smooth cheek that never seemed to change colour, the haughty lips that never seemed to quiver; he wished that he was such an unfaltering man, so superbly sure of himself, so contemptuous of others.

General Crack returned his reluctant scrutiny with a level gaze of indifference, lounging forward on the seat and swinging the great bullion tassels from his sword belt.

"We are oddly met here," he remarked.

"You speak," said Leopold with an effort, "as if I had offended you. I have never been conscious of doing so—"

"Nay," replied Christian. "I, like Caesar, am above offence."

Never had Leopold known any one take with him a tone so bold as to touch insolence, and he felt his rather scornful indifference for this man become tinged with dislike, a definite dislike. Even the appearance of Christian repelled him; he thought that he looked as hard and gross as the grinning, massive figure of the sensual god behind him, and that there was something terrible in his calm, ironic aspect; in his steady look, so amused and penetrating.

"I can never work with this man," he thought. "Hensdorff does not know what he is about to suggest it—"

He could not resist glancing back at Christian, immovable and implacable, seated lonely beneath the stone satyr.

The formal supper that evening was a simple meal; Amelia, Duchess of Schönbuchel, who did not know whom she entertained, had not put herself out very much. She had taken the trouble to set out Eleanora prettily, but the girl was awkward, because her hair was powdered for the first time, her dress was low and pinchingly laced, and the necklace of square sapphires seemed heavy on her neck. The company, too, oppressed her; every one was so much older than herself; every one save Leopold, and he, too, seemed embarrassed and silent. She ventured to glance at him with timid sympathy and thought how much pleasanter it would have been if they could have remained in the woods with Charlotte, quite late, as sometimes they did remain, and there have watched the moon rise till it was reflected in the waters of the Danube below.

JURY TO GET CANELO CASE TODAY

would no longer be required at the theater. The girl charged that the attack took place on Nov. 11.

It was also brought out in the testimony that Canelo is now employed in another theater owned by the same organization as the local amusement house.

Girl On Stand

The complaining witness was brought back on the stand for a brief review of some of the testimony which she had previously given and in rebuttal to some of the testimony presented by the defense. She denied that she had visited the home of Canelo at any time other than the night the alleged attack is reported to have taken place. She also denied that anyone else was in the house at that time. Other witnesses had testified that they were present when Canelo said that he presented the girl with a string of beads.

Delay in the trial was threatened when the defense asked a girl companion of the accusing witness to be brought to the stand to refute testimony given by the complaining witness.

Evidence Accepted

Pierce however withdrew his request that the trial be delayed pending appearance of the companion of the girl when the prosecution stipulated a statement read into the court record by Pierce.

This statement was to the effect that the companion of the girl had stated to Pierce that the girl and not Canelo had requested an audience in the theater on the night of Nov. 11, and that the accusing witness had made no reference to the beads upon returning to her companion who had been sent to another part of the theater. The statement in substance refuted testimony of the complaining witness regarding events which are alleged to have occured in the theater on Nov. 11.

Nurse Testifies

Miss Margaret Butt, trained nurse who was in attendance of Mrs. Alice Canelo in the Hospital Richmond on the night of Nov. 11, told of the visit of Canelo to his wife on that night and that he left the hospital at about 10:35 p. m.

The defense recalled Mrs. Anna Dollard to the stand to establish her relationship between other prosecuting witnesses and others reported to have been involved in the case.

Lively tilts between attorneys for the prosecution and defense again marked the case yesterday. The largest crowd on record in the case jammed the courtroom as arguments were opened.

A $1.25 to Rid Your Home of Moths May Save You Hundreds of Dollars.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

County Safety First Campaign Proves Success

MARTINEZ, Jan. 15.—The safety first campaign which has been carried on as an education to motorists in this county, is proving successful, as is shown by the reduction in automobile accidents and arrests for traffic violations. This is shown in the annual report of the Contra Costa division of California highway patrol, issued today by Capt. George A. Belon.

However more than double the number of persons were injured last year than in 1928 and the death toll was swelled by three to 28, according to the report.

There were but 6,143 persons stopped on the highway last year as against 7,091 in 1928, and arrests were cut from 5713 to 4,-123 last year.

Although traffic officers traveled virtually the same mileage last year as the year before, there was a reduction of over $5,000 in fines as shown by the 1929 total collections of $18,021.17.

Only 126 accidents were investigated last year against 147 in 1928, but in these, 170 persons were injured, against 84 in the earlier year.

QUAKE FELT IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15—(U.P.)—Two earth tremors moving from northwest to southeast were felt in Los Angeles and neighboring cities within ten minutes of each other late today.

The first, lasting ten seconds, came at 4:25 p. m. The second, of about 7 seconds, was felt at 4:35 p. m.

No damage was reported, but the tremors were general throughout southern California. They were reported from Pasadena, 15 miles northeast of Los Angeles, and Long Beach, 20 miles southeast of Los Angeles, Riverside in Riverside county and Santa Ana in Orange county.

The shocks were felt in local theaters and some spectators jumped into the aisles, but resumed their seats when the film continued.

Both Pasadena and Riverside said the shocks were fairly severe, dishes being rattled in Riverside.

The weather bureau here reported that its clocks were stopped by the first tremor.

High Faculty Plans Programs For School Year

An exceptionally busy and enjoyable program is being planned for the spring term at Richmond Union high school by the afculty program committee. Student Body affairs will occupy a greater amount of the time of the pupils than ever before. Student Body metings will be held twice a month, and student council meetings will also be held twice monthly.

A talk will be given at the end of each month before the boys by a speaker sponsored by the Service club of Richmond. Other speakers of note will also talk to the entire Student Body and moving pictures will be given. A noted traveller, a finger print detective, and members of the local high school alumni were among the speakers that spoke to the pupils last semester. The moving picture, "Old Ironsides" was presented last year at the high school. An inter-class football contest was also among the activities enjoyed during school hours by the Richmond Union high school pupils.

The members of the faculty program committee are: David Gray, Hazel Hoefer, Louise Plinez, George Eby and Bernice Whiting. The Student Body officers will also assist in securing speakers and entertainment.

Dan Noziglia Named Head Of Red Men's Hall

At the annual meeting of the Red Men's Hall association, Dan Noziglia was elected president; Frank Marchetti, vice president; and I. N. Jarvis, secretary treasurer. Other members of the board of directors are W. F. Wilson, John Church, O. B. Tretti, and John A. Miller.

The association was reported in good financial condition with its liabilities being steadily liquidated.

McKinley Lodge To Confer Degree

The third degree will be conferred by the McKinley lodge of Masons at the Masonic hall tonight. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

A school of instruction under the direction of Jacob Hughes, district inspector, will be held tomorrow night at the hall. Officers of Richmond Masonic lodges have been invited to attend the meeting.

COUNTY GROUP LAYS PLANS FOR YEAR

Cooperation with the Richmond chamber of commerce in their plans connected with the location of the Ford plant here was urged by Ralph H. Wight, president of Contra Costans, Associated, yesterday at a session in Martinez.

Wight's proposal was contained in a program for the year's work which was submitted to the board of directors of the group yesterday. The program met with the approval of the board.

The program follows:

Without political motive or action, aid and cooperate with our officials—county and municipal—in their work, interesting ourselves in their problems, and tender our best efforts as an organization and as active citizens to help solve those problems for the best interests of Contra Costa county.

Aid and encourage an early, complete registration of qualified voters in Contra Costa county and urge the voting at each election of every qualified voter.

Aid and encourage a complete and accurate federal census of our inhabitants, as well as of our agricultural and industrial resources and distribution statistics.

Continue our efforts for a Salt Water Barrier and our efforts for development of all water resources, cooperating with existing organizations and industries in this field.

Exert our best efforts in behalf of economic spending by our county ,municipal and district governments, and better acquaint ourselves and Contra Costa citizens with our tax and bond issue problems.

Continue our efforts toward the establishing of an enlarged and more developed Mt. Diablo State Park, and for the creation and establishment of other necessary parks and recreational centers.

Create a department of historical research for the obtaining of Contra Costa historical documents, newspaper files, etc., and obtain a permanent record thereof for future use.

Ascertain the existing problems of our established industries and exert our efforts toward aiding in their solution.

Aid and assist our existing transportation companies and public utilities in their development programs and their efforts to extend further service to the Contra Costa public, but retaining an adequate return upon their respective investments in the county.

Encourage a closer relationship and understanding between our urban and rural residents that their respective problems may be easier solved and an earlier and greater development of Contra Costa county be assured.

Continue our survey as to county road and tunnel needs and attempt to unite our citizens on a definite program for development of these by federal, state and county governments.

Cooperate with the chambers of commerce and other community organizations within the county and attempt to unite them in a program of further business, agricultural, residential and industrial development of Contra Costa county.

Affiliate and actively cooperate with the United States chamber of commerce, the state chamber of commerce, the committee of 49, and other similar organizations concerned with those things which will aid in the growth and development of Contra Costa county.

Aid in plans for further development of our rivers, harbors and bays to better meet future trade, commerce and recreational needs.

Cooperate with Richmond chamber of commerce in their plans connected with the establishment of the Ford plant, and with Martinez in their plans of celebration upon completion of the Southern Pacific $12,000,000 Martinez bridge, and with other organizations in their similar celebrations of articular local developments.

Encourage the air-marking of all communities in the county and seriously consider, in cooperation with the U. S. department of commerce, the establishment of adequate airports by county, municipal or private capital, as investigation may determine best.

Ascertain the facts concerning the agricultural, industrial and residential development in Contra Costa county and supply our communities and others with this information by published statements, leaflets, exhibits, etc., in cooperation with and with the assistance of our county government and the communities within our county.

Continue to play for the future development of Contra Costa county and its resources and for its progress and welfare.

Wife Divorces Sleuth Of Films

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15—(U.P.)—William Powell, the suave screen sleuth, pursued real life business at night that was as mysterious as on the screen as far as she was concerned, Jule M. Powell testified today when she obtained a divorce from the actor.

"When I would ask him where he was going, he would tell me that it was his business," she said. Mrs. Powell said that her husband told her she had the mentality of a 12-year old child. Terms of a settlement were not revealed, but it was stated that Powell's income last year was in excess of $100,000.

26 Pins Given To High School Honor Pupils

Urging his listeners to strive toward higher ideals both scholastically and morally, Principal B. X. Tucker presented Honor Society gold pins to 26 pupils of Richmond Union high school yesterday. Twenty former members of the society retained their pins.

The names of nine pupils below the junior year, who are not eligible to the Honor Society, were added to the honor roll. The Honor Society members were formed in a semi-circle on the auditorium stage, while Tucker spoke on "Ideals." The high school band played during the program. Byron Young, student body president, presided.

Dorothy Boswell, Shirley Burns, Doris Byrns, Geraldine Cleek, Delpha DeBord, Helen Dunning, Joe Budziak, Hughes Fowell, Sadie Gasser, Mariana Grignoschi, Arleen Hallstrom, Betty Jackson, Gertrude Kraitzer, Irene Hailes, Edith Jakobsson, Kermit Moe, Lucy Musso, Fred Oshima Ada Patterson, Ernest Peters, Edna Plouff, Emily Stribley, Audra Wilson and Lloyd Zumwalt.

Former members who retained their pins included: Dina Biagini, Marie Chattleton, Stella Cozzo, Helen Cunningham, Helen Delessi, Marietta Eisenberger, Grace Lee Gribble, Paul Illig, Dorothy Lewis, Patricia McAndrews, Edward Owens, Josephine Ramsey Bruno Roveda, Bertha Smersfelt, Hattie May Smith, Pearl Terry, Walter Thomas, Hazel Whalen Madeline Whittlesey and Byron Young.

Mother, Infant Laid To Rest

Mrs. Charles Sanderetto and infant son, of El Cerrito, were laid to rest in St. Joseph's cemetery yesterday following services at the St. John's Catholic church. Funeral arrangements were handled by the Bert Curry chapel.

Much Orange Juice Used At State Fair

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 15—UP—It would take one person, drinking a glass of orange juice at every meal, 40 years to consume the drinks served at the one 'pure juice' stand at the California State Fair last year.

This was figured out by Justus F. Craemer of Orange, who besides being chairman of publicity for the State Agricultural society and president of the California Newspapers Publishers association, is no slough as a statistician.

During the 10 days of the fair last September, there were 49,-660 drinks served at the orange juice stands in the horticultural building, Craemer said. It took hundreds of thousands of oranges and lemons to yield the juice for these drinks.

If the individual drink containers used for these drinks were stacked one on top of the other, they would reach the height of Mt. Everest, the tallest mountain in the world.

Rites Held For Mrs. M. D. Fraser

Funeral services were conducted at Curry's chapel in Martinez for Mrs. Mary D. Frazer, mother of Mrs. Ethel Hooper of Richmond. Interment was in Alhambra cemetery.

Mrs. Frazer died at her home in Martinez on Saturday. In addition to her daughter, Mrs. Hooper, she leaves four sons and daughters.

FAMOUS NAVY OFFICER RETIRES

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—UP—Capt. Thomas Jefferson Jackson See, well known in naval circles at Mare Island and other bases throughout the country, today announced his retirement.

Captain See is a professor of mathematics and an astronomer. He entered the service in 1899 as a professor of mathematics and for a time instructed students at the Naval academy at Annapolis.

He was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1889, and later was a post graduate student at the University of Berlin.

He frequently visited the navy yard at Mare Island and is well known in Vallejo social circles.

His retirement as an officer will not affect his activity, Captain See said.

"I have about 40 years more of astronomical work to do. It is only the navy department of me that is going into retirement.

Captain See is now 64 years old.

Roosevelt School Concert Today

Mrs. Irma Randolph, soloist and Mrs. Hattie B. Wright, dramatic reader, will be on the program at the Roosevelt Junior high school today at the school auditorium. Mrs. Florence Clarke will accompany Mrs. Randolph.

The program is scheduled to start at 12:15 and the public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Randolph will sing, "There Is Ever a Song Somewheres," "Little Orphan Annie," and "Silver Lining." Mrs. Wright will recite several of James Whitcomb Riley's poems.

Mack H. Badgett Funeral Today

Last rites for Mack H. Badgett, north Richmond resident who died in Martinez recently, will be held from the Wilson and Kratzer chapel at 9:30 this morning. Interment will be in Sunset View cemetery.

Badgett was a grocer and had resided in California for 20 years. For a number of years he operated a cigar store and bootblack stand on Macdonald avenue.

More and More Colds Treated Externally

Demand for Vicks VapoRub Pioneer of "No Dosing" Method, Grows At Amazing Rate

A generation ago, when Vicks VapoRub was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, more and more colds are treated externally, and the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a plaster; and, at the same time it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

Year after year the demand for Vicks has grown until it is now the family standby for colds—adults' as well as children's—in more than 60 countries.

A short time ago the famous Vick slogan "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," was raised to "21 Million" to keep step with the ever-increasing demand. Again the figures have been outgrown, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly," in the United States alone.
